

Sort of Good News on Regulations

George Washington University's Columbian College of Arts and Sciences hosts the Regulatory Studies Center. And today they released some good news. The volume of new regulations emanating from Washington, D.C. has decreased.

Regulations Issued by Type and Year
(click for larger image)

Naturally, I have a complaint. The horizontal axis is at zero. When I see a bar on a graph like this that extends below that axis I'll be much happier.