David Burge @iowahawkblog

Jun 30 · 5 tweets · iowahawkblog/status/1674802924642357248

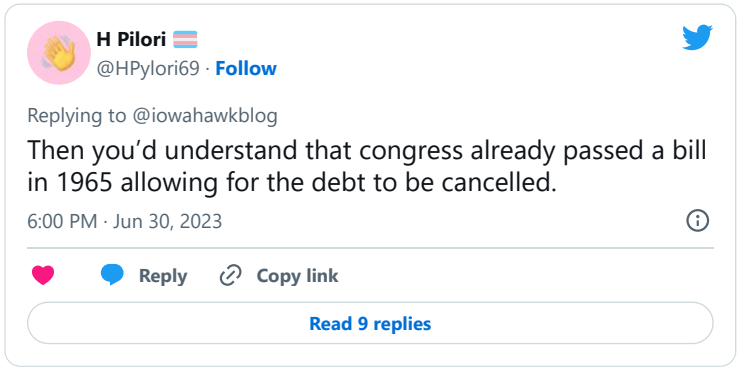
You cannot "wipe away" debt, you can only change who has to pay for it.

Consider it done. PPP was an abomination that benefited countless garbage grifters, including GOP politicians. But it was voted on by Congress, the only branch with the legal power to spend, and not a presidential wave of the hand.

It's not complicated. If student loan debtors want relief, get Congress to pass legislation to pay for it, and stop hallucinating that the President has the Constitutional power to spend $400 billion without their approval.

Cripes, I'm a drunk high school dropout in a Texas trailer park, and even I understand Article I of the Constitution

Even the collective brain trust of the entire White House legal team wasn't dumb enough to try this angle



• • •